dencies. Now it is collected by a personal agent of John Taylor, who reports direct to the head office. This is a much more thorough and efficient method than the old, and gives no chance whatever for "leakage." Now the chief gets all the tithing; formerly he got what he could save from the local robbers, whose grasping avaries cut both way. It is true that the tithe system is nominally voluntary; it always was so in name. In fact, however, the payment of tithing is compulsory now as heretofore. The men who work on the Pacific system of railroads here, the Utah Central, Utah & Nevada, Salt Lake & Western, etc., are paid at certain times, and at the elbow of the paymaster sits the tithe-collector, who states to each man as he gets his money the amount of tithing due thereon, which he pays instantly. Of course it is physically possible for the em-loye to put his money in his pocket and walk away, ignoring the tithe-master, but if he dees so he is speedily discharged from the employ of the road. So in other enterprises where Mormons control; to be employed persons must be good Mormons, and good Mormons alway pay their tithing, and make other good Mormons, and good Mormons in their employ to do the same. With respect to the farmers, who are the bulk of the population, the local clurch agents in the settlements know about how much to expect every year from every head of a family; if the amount is not forthcoming, it is sure to be hard times for that family; they can't get enough water to irrigate their crops; their cattle die or stray away past recover; and their neighbors are not iriendly, and often actively hostile. It is the same way in any walk of life. The Mormon who doesn't pay tithes can't get along, there are always "accid-nts" and drawbacks, which deter and impoverish him. Practically, therefor. walk of life. The Mormon who doesn't pay tithes can't get work, and strive how he may, he can't get along, there are always "accidents" and drawbacks, which deter and impoverish him. Practically, therefore, the payment of tithing is compulsory, just as it always has been among them since they had a chance to enforce their torments and iron discipline on their fellows. Instances of persons discharged from private and (Mormon) public employ for this cause are plenty, and we have given scores of them by name and could give hundreds. The educational system of Utah (if a lack of system can be said to be one) is peculiar. There are no public schools in an American sense, and in the outer settlements no schools at all. The various denominations have sectarian schools in Sait Lake City and other places, which are doing good work. Aside from these there are self-styled public schools, unanimonally in charge of Mormons, good standing in that sect being made a condition precedent even for employment as a teacher, and to hold the higher educational offices one must be a polygamist. These Mormon schools are nominally public schools; and to support them the general public are taxed. The school-houses were all built in the first place as meeting houses, to be used also for schools; and for their repair and renewal the public have to pay, while the titles to the ground sare nobody knows where. A year or two ago the church quieted title in a few of the districts by taking the part of the ground that was most valuable and deeding the remainder to the district. The instruction in these schools is of the most primitive and defective sort; and in them are taught in life of the "devotional exercises" common elsewhere, the Joe Smith fraud and other Mormon dogmas. For primitive and detective sort; and in them are taught in lieu of the "devotional exercises" common elsewhere, the Joe Smith fraud and other Mormon dogmas. For prayers we have some ignorant creature appealing to the Supreme Being for the protection of "this people," and impudently bearing personal testimony that the petitioner knows that "this is a true work," and all the rest of it.

The Gentiles of Sall Lake City, who are obliged to pay for the education of their children in the denominational schools above referred to, are obliged to selde to annually pay about half the expense of these Mormon sectarian (misnamed public) schools, to which none of them ever send their children. And, besides, they endure the exasperation of being told that they are noisy brawlers, and really haven't anything to complain about. To those familiar with the facts, the Gentile characteristic here is mildness of disposition and Job-like patience.

IRON AND STEEL.

Growth of the trest Industry in

The first iron ore discovered in this country was in North Carolina in 1585. In 608 a ship load of iron ore was exported to Eugiand from Jamestown, Va. The first iron works successfully established in this country was a blast furnace and re-finery forge in Lynn, Mass. In 1684, just ten years after the landing of William Penn at Philadelphia, the iron hill is mentioned as being situated eight miles from New Castle, in New Castle county, then in Pennsylvania, but now in Delaware. Iron ore was found in this locality, but iron was not made here until many years after. The manufacture of iron in Pennsylvania was established in 1716 by Thomas Rutter. His enterprise consisted of a blooming forge located on Manatawny Creek, in Berks county, about three miles above Pottstown. The second iron enterprise in Pennsylvania, was Coventry, force on Pennsylvania was Coventry forge, on French Creek, in the lower part of Chester Pointstown. The second iron enterprise in Pennsylvania was Coventry forge, on French Creek, in the lower part of Chester county.

The erection of other furnaces and forges proceeded with great rapidity in the Schuylkill Valley. In the sixty years that intervened between 1716 and the Revolutionary struggle probably sixty blast furnaces and forges were built—as a rate of progress which was not attained by any other colony in the same period.

After the Revolution the manufacture of iron received a fresh impulse in the Eastern part of Pennsylvania, and was farther extended in the interior. In 1786 there were seveneen furnaces, forges and slitting mills within in thirty-nine miles of Lancaster. The first iron manufacture dwst of the Allegheny mountains is said to have been made in 1770, in Fayette County, on Georges of fifty-two miles of Lancaster. The first iron manufacture dwst of the Allegheny mountains is said to have been made in 1770, in Fayette County, on Georges of the iron industry at Pittsburg was a small furnace built on Two miles Run, at a place now known as Shady Side, in 1792. In 1807 there were three nail factories in Pittsburg. The first plumpes were all for the manufacture of charcoal iron. In 1840 anthracities and bituminous cole came into use as a substitute. After many years of experiment bituminous coke came largely to be used in connection with the conversion of pig iron into reflaced from about 1834.

The growth and development of these manufactures are graphically traced by Mr. Swank. He shows that since the middle of the last century Pennsylvania has been the foremost iron making State in the Union. In 1882 it made 48 per cent of all the pig iron made in the United States, 56 per cent of all the rails, 40 per cent of all the rolled iron, except rails, and 55 per cent of all the steel.

The Judge.

It was pair of a "dudes" who had been to Europe and they were conversing in a New York horse-car, much to the delectation of the other passengers.

"Things are awful stupid here," remarked one. "Everything's so new, you know, nothing to see."

Here the other passengers smiled audibly, apparently at something outside the window, and one old farmer laughed outright. The dude who had spoken looked around in mild surprise, and then continued. through the organization of the local stakes

One Experience From Many. One Experience From Many.

I had been sick and miserable so long and had caused my husband so much trouble side expense, no one seemed to know what siled me, that I was completely disheartened and discouraged. In this frame of mind I got a bottle of Hop. Bitters and used them unknown to my family. I soon began to improve and gained so fast that my husband and family thought it strange and unnatural, but when I told them what had helped me, they said, "Hurrah for Hop.
